

If unable to deliver, please return to:

CPM #40015547

The Wilderness Canoe Association
12 Erindale Crescent
Brampton, Ontario
Canada
L6W 1B5

NASTAWGAN

The Journal of the Wilderness Canoe Association

Future issue coming soon

If you want to submit a story or maybe you want to help us out, contact us at chair@wildernesscanoe.ca

Hiking the World's Longest Esker

Story and photos by Deanne Wolgemuth

The "Hiking the World's Longest Esker" is a 100-mile hike that follows the path of the world's longest esker, a long, narrow ridge of glacial till that runs from the Canadian border to the United States. The hike is a challenging and rewarding experience that offers a unique perspective on the natural world.

Thlewiaza 2017: Exploring Sleeping Island and No-Man's River

Part II
Story by Chris Rush and Jerry Johnson

Thlewiaza, July 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Thlewiaza River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Thlewiaza 2017: Exploring Sleeping Island and No-Man's River

Part I
Story by Chris Rush and Jerry Johnson

Thlewiaza, July 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Thlewiaza River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Cat River Canoe Trip

Story and Sketches by Jon Berger

Cat River, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Cat River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Canoe Ungava: Crossing the Ungava Peninsula with No Single-Use Plastics

Story and photos by Deanne Wolgemuth

Canoe Ungava, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Ungava Peninsula for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Flat River

Story by Deanne Wolgemuth and Kary Holbrook

Flat River, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Flat River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Where the Rivers are Wild: A Journey Down the Lower Missinabi and Moose Rivers

Story and photos by Erik Thompson

Where the Rivers are Wild, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Lower Missinabi and Moose Rivers for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

My Memory of the Lake Superior 1967 Centennial Canoe Voyage

Story by Dr. Bob James

My Memory of the Lake Superior 1967 Centennial Canoe Voyage, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Lake Superior for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

AGAWA!

Story and photos by Jeff McCall

AGAWA!, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the AGAWA! for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

From Labrador to Chisasibi on James Bay

Story by Herman Perry

From Labrador to Chisasibi on James Bay, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the James Bay for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Back Door to the Hood River

Photos by Greg Kongsbaug, Sara Cantor, Rosemary Warren, Rob Dale

Back Door to the Hood River, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Hood River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Lockhart River - Pike's Portage Canoe Trip

Photos by Carleen Minstrell, Colin Phillips and Tom Clesco

Lockhart River - Pike's Portage Canoe Trip, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Lockhart River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Up the Grandin River and down the Johnny Hoe River

Story and photos by Deanne Wolgemuth

Up the Grandin River and down the Johnny Hoe River, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Grandin River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Palmer Rapids - a home away from home

Story by Deanne Wolgemuth

Palmer Rapids - a home away from home, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Palmer Rapids for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

From the Heart of the Snake

Story by Stephanie Potter

From the Heart of the Snake, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Snake River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.

Chapleau River 2013

Story by Richard Griffith

Chapleau River 2013, June 18th, 2017
A week after our first trip, we returned to the Chapleau River for a second trip. This time, we explored Sleeping Island and No-Man's River. The trip was a challenging and rewarding experience that offered a unique perspective on the natural world.